BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 12th 1922.

TO THE LIBRARIAN:

For the past seventeen years we have continuously bound books for Public Libraries, Universities, Colleges, and Schools.

Our methods have resulted in the greatest economy to these institutions because of the durability of our binding.

Good workmanship and the best materials procurable, combine to make volumes bound by us able to withstand the utmost wear and give the longest service.

We are now ready to bind books and magazines for Special Libraries.

If you are interested we will be glad to submit quotations on books bound in half leather, and also in full Holliston buckram.

The following schedule will give you an idea of our binding charges, but we are always willing to make concessions on orders comprising one hundred volumes and over:--

	Buckram	Leather
For books measuring up to 8"	.70	.80
9"	.85	.95
10"	1.10	1.30
11"	1.35	1.60

We will be pleased to send special quotations on magazines.

Hoping to hear favorably from you, we are,

Gentlemen:-

Some time when your representative is in this neighborhood (please do not have him make a special trip for the purpose), I should be glad to have him stop and show us a sample of your binding. It is just possible we might have some work for you if it measures up to our standard.

Very truly yours,
